(5X1=5)

The sun was setting over the small village, casting a warm orange glow across the fields. Children ran through the narrow lanes, their laughter echoing in the quiet evening. A farmer returned home with his bullock cart, filled with freshly harvested crops, waving to his neighbour's as he passed by. The smell of cooking wafted through the air as women prepared meals for their families. Some villagers gathered near the temple, discussing their day while waiting for the evening prayers to begin. In the distance, the temple bell chimed, signalling the end of the day and the beginning of prayers. The fields, now deserted, glistened with dew as the first stars began to appear in the clear sky. The village, though small and humble, was filled with a sense of peace and harmony. The farmer, tired from his work, sat outside his home, enjoying the cool breeze that swept through the village. Children, now tired from playing, gathered around their mothers, eagerly waiting for dinner. Dogs barked occasionally, adding to the familiar sounds of village life.

As the night deepened, the once-busy streets became silent. The faint chirping of crickets could be heard, and the cool air carried the scent of flowers blooming nearby. Inside the homes, families shared their meals, talking about the day's work and plans for the next morning. The farmer's wife served food with care, ensuring everyone was well-fed. The simple joys of the day made the hard work worthwhile. Stars shone brightly in the dark sky, illuminating the fields like tiny lanterns. The farmer and his wife sat outside, marvelling at the beauty of the night sky. They reminisced about their younger days and shared stories of hope for their children. It was a life marked by hard work and modest pleasures, but the sense of togetherness and harmony made it beautiful.

1. Suggest a suitable title for the passage.
2. What is the central idea of the passage?
3. What does the word "illuminating" mean in the passage?

4. Who returned home with a bullock cart and what was it filled with?
